Recovery of Microsoft Office 2013 passwords is more affordable now

November 2012. Now our most affordable solutions, Accent EXCEL Password Recovery 7 and Accent WORD Password Recovery 7, have the same support for Microsoft Office 2013 as our flagship product, which also features accelerated speeds using graphics cards.

Passcovery is among the leaders on the market of solutions recovering passwords applying GPU. It announces the release of new versions of its most affordable programs searching for passwords set for Microsoft Office documents – Accent EXCEL Password Recovery and Accent WORD Password Recovery.

The module of GPU computing support is unavailable in these programs but, nevertheless, they remain popular among users thanks to the high speed of searching of passwords for all Office versions, including Microsoft Office 2013. Support of this format was implemented in the new versions of Accent EXCEL Password Recovery 7 and Accent WORD Password Recovery 7.

A constant high speed of searching is the hallmark of Accent Password Recovery programs.

During program development special attention was given to the optimization of the source code for all families of processors presented on the market. When Accent Password Recovery programs are started they determine the type of processor and use the algorythm developed specially for the provcessor. It is this that also guarantees constant high speeds of searching of passwords set for Microsoft Excel 2013 / Microsoft Word 2013 documents.

Accent EXCEL Password Recovery and Accent WORD Password Recovery support the new format and guarantee ease of use, high speed of searching of complex passwords and instant recovery or removal of passwords in case of simple types of protection, for example, VBA macros protection.

Users are invited to try out the new versions of AccentEPR and AccentWPR for themselves. The Accent download page offers a free demo version compatible with all major versions of Windows. License costs vary based on the number of supported video cards.
